

Clive Brown & Urban Sound Biography

Clive Brown is a leading figure in British gospel music, widely recognised for his powerful direction, rich vocal arrangements and lasting impact on generations of singers. With over 40 years of experience, he has trained some of the UK's most renowned gospel artists and is celebrated for a sound that blends spiritual depth with musical excellence. His credits include performing with Meat Loaf, Mariah Carey, Shirley Caesar and the late Thomas Whitfield, as well as appearances at Euro 96 and in the West End production Mama, I Want to Sing.

Clive's signature style as a singer, writer, arranger and theatre performer is dynamic, electrifying and deeply rooted in faith, captivating audiences across five decades. His latest ensemble, Clive Brown & Urban Sound (CBUS), is a vibrant choir formed in 2019, known for their soulful harmonies, creative arrangements and heartfelt performances.

Clive's faith is his driving force and seeing the transformation of people through the medium of gospel music. Clive released an EP 'The Divine' with his choir Urban Voices in 2023 with the intention of bringing gospel music into contemporary spaces while honouring its roots. It certainly worked as standout performances in a variety of award, Music and Global Arts shows followed.

Clive Brown is preparing the choir to record for their first full album thereafter touring sound across London, the UK and internationally offering performances that promise to uplift, inspire and empower.